RECORDER:

REPORTER:

PARTIES
PRESENT:

JOURNAL ENTRIES

- Defendants CCC Production, LLC and Frank Glinton s Motion to Set Aside Default came before this Court on January 9, 2012. Counsel for Defendants noted there may be an issue with the timing of the Entry of Default. The Court deferred its decision to its Chamber Calendar, and has reviewed the record and confirmed the Notice of Entry of Default was filed August 9, 2011, prior to Plaintiff filing its Second Amended Complaint on August 18, 2011. The Court therefore finds the default as to both parties was procedurally proper. For that reason and for all the reasons stated at the hearing, the Court therefore DENIES the Motion to Set Aside the Default.

A default prove-up hearing was held by this Court on September 19 and 20, 2011, and October 31, 2011, and the Court deferred its decision to its Chamber Calendar pending the ruling on the Motion to Set Aside. Having reviewed the pleadings and papers on file, the Court finds insufficient evidence has been presented to support Plaintiff s request for default judgment for the gross amount of $ 188,508,118.16. As stated by the Court in Foster v. Dingwall, 126 Nev. Adv. Op. 6, 227 P.3d 1042, 1050 (2010), the amount of damages requested in a default judgment proceeding must be proven by substantial evidence. The Court further explained:

Generally, where a district court enters default, the facts alleged in the pleadings will be deemed admitted. Thus, during an NRCP 55(b)(2) prove-up hearing, the district court shall consider the allegations deemed admitted to determine whether the non-offending party has established a prima facie case for liability. This court has defined a prima facie case as sufficiency of evidence in order to send the question to the jury.

[A]lthough allegations in the pleadings are deemed admitted as a result of the entry of default, the admission does not relieve the nonoffending party's obligation to present sufficient evidence to establish a prima facie case, which includes substantial evidence that the damages sought are consistent with the claims for which the nonoffending party seeks compensation. In other words, where the nonoffending party seeks monetary relief, a prima facie case requires the nonoffending party to establish that the offending party's conduct resulted in damages, the amount of which is proven by substantial evidence. Id
In the present case, Plaintiff sought damages for harm it alleged was incurred by individuals not parties to the action such as Aim High Global. It also sought payment of loans made to Black Sands, which was not a defaulted party to the litigation, and there was not an alter ego to either of the defaulted Defendants established. Pursuant to the record presented to the Court and applicable law, such claims are not properly before the Court and no relief to an entity not a party to the action as prayed for by the Plaintiff can be provided. Additionally, based on the evidence provided, liability cannot be established in a default proceeding to an entity against whom a default has not been taken such as Black Sands.

Further, Plaintiff did not provide substantial evidence that the devaluation of Aim High Global s stock in what it asserted was approximately $86 million dollars was a result of the alleged offending conduct of either the defaulted defendants. Similarly, there was not substantial evidence to support the claim that Aim High Global or AimHigh America acted in a manner that resulted in the job loss of Robert Oh that could be as a result of the offending party s conduct and thus no damages could be awarded against the defaulted defendants for Mr. Oh s loss of employment. Similarly there was not substantial evidence to form the basis of the expectation damages asserted by AimHigh in the amount of approximately $93 million. Instead, the Court finds that the there was substantial evidence to support the damages asserted in the report prepared by Sharon McNair but the report does not break down the amounts owed by each of the defaulted Defendants or whether there is joint and several liability. Therefore, Plaintiff's counsel needs to provide a proposed default judgment with the amounts requested against each of the defaulted defendants. Additionally, although there was testimony at the hearings from Plaintiff's witness as to the amount of attorney fees expended, the Court has not been provided with a Motion for Attorney Fees nor a Memorandum of Costs and thus defers ruling on such until appropriate documentation has been provided. The Court further finds that any other remaining amounts requested to be speculative and not proven in accordance with law.
