Procedural Background / Statement of Facts

Appellant is the Defendant in the underlying district court action.
Prior to service of the Decree, counsel for Plaintiff/Respondent withdrew from representation.
The Decree was served on Appellant on January 27, 2026.
At the hearing held January 6, 2026, the district court indicated Appellant was to receive approximately $1,023 per month in child support. The Decree does not reflect this determination (Exhibit 10).

Prior to the trial hearing, Appellant prepared, filed, and served a Settlement Agreement with the Court, outlining her proposed resolutions for child support, custody, and other matters. This submission demonstrates Appellant's proactive engagement in resolving the case and providing the Court with a clear record of her proposals (Exhibit 13).
Appellant did not sign, approve, or stipulate to the Decree, nor authorize entry of the Decree in its present form. No executed stipulation or written agreement exists supporting entry of the Decree.

Until the minor child is enrolled in school, Appellant asserts that child pickups shall remain Thursdays at 10:00 a.m. to maintain stability and serve the child's best interests.
Appellant is a permanent resident of the United States and represented herself (pro se). She interpreted for herself in German because she could not obtain legal counsel or interpreter services. She was unable to obtain legal assistance or a German interpreter through available legal service organizations.

At the time of filing this Notice of Appeal, Appellant has no reliable or stable source of income. Her only earnings consist of limited income from a part-time 1099 tip-based position, which is inconsistent and insufficient to meet basic living expenses.

Appellant is experiencing significant financial hardship, including receipt of an eviction notice in November 2025 while continuing to reside in her apartment, documented delayed payments, and reliance on public health insurance coverage (Exhibit 11).

STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. Joint Legal Custody and Educational Decisions

Under joint legal custody, both parents retain equal rights to make educational decisions for the minor child, Robert Crevling (DOB 12/26/2020).
Prior to the pretrial proceedings, Plaintiff unilaterally enrolled the child in a school lottery without consultation and acknowledged this in the Talking Parents application (Exhibit 6), violating joint custody requirements.

The Court ordered mutual agreement for educational decisions. Appellant contends the Decree does not adequately enforce these rights.

2. Federal Tax Matters

Appellant has taken steps to clarify tax matters referenced in the Decree. She filed her 2025 taxes on February 3, 2026 (Exhibit 4).
She contacted the Internal Revenue Service on February 9, 2026 regarding tax liabilities for 2020–2022 (Exhibits 1, 2, 3, and 5). Appellant did not prepare or authorize the filings and did not benefit from any refunds.
Administrative review remains ongoing. Appellant contends the Decree improperly relies on unresolved tax obligations.

3. Additional Relevant Tax Filing and Marital Status Facts

In 2023, while traveling to Germany to visit her family, Plaintiff sent Appellant text messages accusing her of infidelity and expressly declaring the end of the relationship (Exhibit 12).
Appellant later learned through direct communication with the Internal Revenue Service that Plaintiff discontinued filing joint married tax returns beginning in tax year 2023 and removed Appellant from joint filing status without her participation, authorization, or agreement.
This unilateral change in tax filing status occurred contemporaneously with Plaintiff's accusations and declared termination of the relationship and is directly relevant to the parties' financial separation, tax liability allocation, and disputed tax matters in this appeal.

4. Holiday and Special Occasion Parenting Time

Parenting time is shared as follows:

Easter / Spring Break — Mother in even-numbered years; Father in odd-numbered years
Child's Birthday — Mother in even-numbered years; Father in odd-numbered years

Any deviation requires written agreement of both parties or a court order.

5. Waiver of Penalties and Safety Protections

Appellant resided in a confidential domestic violence shelter from March 20 through June 2025 (Exhibit 7).
While Appellant was hospitalized April 16, 2025, Plaintiff removed the child and failed to reasonably facilitate contact (Exhibit 8).

6. Financial Hardship

My ex husband Christopher Crevling held me in the unknown of any financial aspects during our whole marriage. I had no insights in credit cards, loans or tax matters. Until today i haven seen any contracts with my authorization. It was just a table listed in the financial disclosure form without any evidence until today nor that i own physically any of the cards which are supposedly in both of our names. I have my own chime checkings account established.

I still haven't recieved any contracts I supposedly signed jointly during the marriage just bank statements which don't really give an insight on that this expense was clearly for me. Mr crevlings income was to the time of being married about 7000$ and listed all his expenses in the fdf and was handling inefficiently and without my insight of our finances.

Appellant continues to experience severe financial hardship, including eviction notice, continued residence, delayed payments, lack of stable employment income, reliance on inconsistent tip-based 1099 earnings, and reliance on public medical assistance coverage. These circumstances directly affect support calculations, ability to pay legal costs, and equitable considerations (Exhibit 11).

ARGUMENTS

CHILD SUPPORT COMPLIANCE AND IMPROPER UNLAWFUL DEDUCTIONS

Child support obligations are mandatory and may not be modified absent a valid court order. A paying parent has no authority to reduce court-ordered child support through offsets or financial recharacterizations.
Plaintiff established a payment plan for alleged back taxes. The Decree characterizes a $450 monthly tax-related payment as being "in lieu of alimony." However, this characterization does not authorize reduction of child support (Exhibit 9).

Spousal support and child support are separate legal obligations. A personal tax repayment arrangement — even if labeled as being in lieu of alimony — does not justify offsetting child support unless the Court expressly modified the child support amount. No such authorization exists.

Appellant had no involvement in tax filings for 2020, 2021, or 2022, had no knowledge returns were filed, and had no access to financial information used to create the liability (Exhibits 1–3, Any such tax liability cannot lawfully reduce child support.

The additional $150 deduction for private health insurance premiums is unsupported by any court order. Appellant receives Medicaid coverage due to financial hardship and does not control or benefit from Plaintiff's private insurance (Exhibit 9; Exhibit 11).
Any unilateral reduction constitutes noncompliance with the Court's order.
The minor child has been covered by Medicaid since April 2025. At that time, there was no court order requiring private health insurance. Father voluntarily enrolled the child in private insurance after the child already had full medical coverage.
Because adequate medical support already existed, the private insurance constituted duplicative coverage from its inception. Medical support must be reasonable and necessary, and voluntary duplicative expenses should not reduce child support or be equitably allocated absent a showing of medical necessity.

Therefore, the premium cost should not be credited or deducted in the child support calculation, or alternatively, the medical support order should be modified.

The District Court Erred by Allowing or Requiring Allocation of Private Health Insurance Premiums When the Minor Child Was Already Covered by Medicaid

The district court abused its discretion by permitting allocation, credit, or financial impact of private health insurance premiums without properly considering the existing medical coverage of the minor child and the duplicative nature of the private policy.

The record establishes that the minor child was enrolled in Medicaid in April 01st 2025 and received full medical coverage at that time. Medicaid constitutes valid medical support under Nevada law and provided comprehensive access to healthcare providers and services.

In November 2025, Father voluntarily enrolled the minor child in private premium health insurance, approximately seven months after Medicaid coverage was already in place. At the time of this enrollment, no court order required Father to obtain private insurance. The private policy therefore created duplicative medical coverage from its inception.
Under Nevada law, medical support must be reasonable, necessary, and equitably allocated. Pursuant to NRS 125B.085, every child support order must include medical support provisions, but the coverage must be reasonable in cost and accessible to the child. The statute does not require duplicative or unnecessary coverage and does not authorize allocation of expenses that are not reasonable or necessary for the child's healthcare.

Further, NAC 425.135 requires courts to equitably allocate medical support obligations and defines medical support to include both private insurance and public coverage such as Medicaid. Because Medicaid is expressly recognized as valid medical support, the existence of active Medicaid coverage must be considered when determining whether additional insurance is necessary or reasonable.
When a child already has adequate medical coverage, the addition of a second insurance policy requires a determination that such additional coverage is necessary, beneficial, and reasonable in cost. The district court made no findings that:

Medicaid coverage was inadequate or inaccessible;
the private policy provided medically necessary benefits not otherwise available; or the cost of maintaining duplicative coverage was reasonable or equitably allocated.
Nevada law requires medical support to be based on the child's actual healthcare needs and to be allocated fairly between the parties. See NRS 125B.085; NAC 425.135. Absent findings that additional coverage was necessary or reasonable, allocating or crediting the cost of private insurance improperly shifts financial responsibility for a voluntary and duplicative expense. Because the minor child, Robert Crevling, already had comprehensive medical coverage through Medicaid (Exhibit 14) prior to Father's voluntary enrollment in private insurance, the district court's allocation of premium costs — or any child support adjustment based on those premiums — was unreasonable and unsupported by the record. The court failed to apply the statutory requirement that medical support be reasonable in cost and equitably allocated in light of existing coverage.
Accordingly, the district court abused its discretion by failing to evaluate the duplicative nature of the coverage and by permitting financial consequences arising from a voluntary insurance expense that was not shown to be medically necessary.

Pursuant to NRS 125B.080 and NRS 125C.0035, the Court shall waive any penalty or adverse inference against the Defendant, as the Defendant resided in a confidential domestic violence shelter ("Safe House") with the minor child from approximately March 20, 2025 through the end of June 2025, due to substantiated concerns for safety arising from domestic violence. During this period, on or about April 16, 2025, while the Defendant was hospitalized, the Plaintiff removed the minor child from the Defendant's care and thereafter failed to reasonably cooperate with or facilitate the Defendant's access to or contact with the minor child. Such circumstances constitute good cause for waiver, as the Defendant's actions were taken in good faith to protect herself and the minor child and were in the child's best interest.
Pursuant to NRS 125.150 and NRS 125.160, the Court hereby orders that the costs associated with translation and notarization shall be borne by the Plaintiff..

Statutory Violations and Improper Legal Characterization

The deductions and language drafted in the Decree conflict with controlling Nevada and federal law.

A. Modification of Child Support Without Court Authority — NRS 125B.140
Child support may only be modified by court order based on proper legal findings. A support obligation cannot be altered indirectly through financial offsets, recharacterizations, or private arrangements. Labeling a tax repayment as "in lieu of alimony" does not authorize any reduction to child support unless the Court expressly modified the support amount.

B. Mandatory Nature and Priority of Child Support — NRS 125B.020 and NRS 125B.070
Child support is a mandatory obligation owed for the benefit of the child and calculated under statutory guidelines. It cannot be subordinated to personal debts or financial arrangements of the paying parent. Tax repayment plans and private insurance expenses are personal financial obligations and cannot take priority over court-ordered child support.

C. Separate Legal Treatment of Spousal Support — NRS 125.150
Spousal support and child support are separate and independent legal obligations. Recharacterizing a personal tax repayment as "in lieu of alimony" does not lawfully convert that obligation into a child support offset. Spousal support determinations cannot be used as a mechanism to reduce or bypass child support unless the Court expressly ordered such an adjustment within the support calculation.

D. Federal Law Governing Child Support Treatment
Child support is not a tax obligation, is not tax-deductible, and cannot be offset or reduced to satisfy tax liabilities or repayment arrangements. A private tax payment plan cannot legally function as a substitute for, or reduction of, child support.

E. Lack of Knowledge or Participation in the Underlying Tax Liability
Appellant had no involvement in or knowledge of the tax filings that allegedly created the liability. Imposing financial consequences arising from undisclosed tax filings and using them to reduce child support is inconsistent with due process and equitable allocation of financial responsibility.

F. Improper Drafting Producing an Unlawful Result
By structuring a personal tax repayment as "in lieu of alimony" while allowing it to function as a reduction of child support, Plaintiff's counsel created a provision that effectively modifies child support without statutory authority, without required findings, and without lawful basis. Nevada law does not permit indirect modification of child support through semantic reclassification of unrelated financial obligations.

Request for Relief

Appellant respectfully requests that the Court:

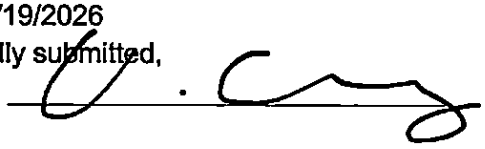

Reverse or vacate the portion of the order allocating or crediting private health insurance premiums; or

Remand the matter for specific findings consistent with NRS 125B.085 and NAC 425.135, including determinations regarding medical necessity, reasonableness of cost, and equitable allocation of medical support in light of the child's existing Medicaid coverage.

This appeal arises from a child support and medical support determination entered in Nevada, where statutes and regulations require that medical support be reasonable in cost, necessary for the child, and equitably allocated.

Find the $450 tax-related payment — even if labeled in lieu of alimony — does not reduce child support.
Vacate or correct any Decree provision allowing unauthorized deductions (Exhibit 9).
Order full compliance with the child support obligation consistent with Court's determination (Exhibit 10).
Enforce joint legal custody rights regarding education (Exhibit 6).
Grant any additional relief necessary to protect the child's financial and legal interests.

Waive any penalty or adverse inference against the Defendant.

BUSINESS STRUCTURE ANALYSIS

VANESSA CREVILING — Keep for your records

Schedule C Business Name: VANILLA VENOM

1.	Net profit or (loss) from Schedule C Line 31 ..... 1. If Line 1 is less than 0, stop, there is no savings from this Schedule C business activity and forming an S Corporation will not save any self-employment taxes. There may still be other reasons to consider a change in business organization.	1,060
2.	Total self-employment tax from Schedule SE line 12 ..... 2.	149
3.	Reasonable salary as discussed with the taxpayer (IRS guidance is between 40% and 60% of net profits, but facts and circumstances determine what is actually a reasonable salary) ..... 3.	636
4.	Employment taxes on reasonable salary ..... 4.	97
5.	Estimated savings in employment/self-employment taxes ..... 5.	52

This is an estimate based on your current year taxes. Overall tax results may vary based on additional factors such as changes in your tax situation or the payment of state taxes. You can schedule an appointment with your tax pro for additional information or a more in-depth analysis.

COPY NOT A FILE COPY

Here are some additional points to consider when evaluating a change from a Schedule C to an S Corporation:

____ A properly filed S Corporation election is required before tax savings are available. Existing calendar year entities should elect by March 15 of the current year to see any benefits on next year's taxes. New entities should make the election within 2 months and 15 days of the start of their tax year.

____ Providing yourself a reasonable salary can change your Qualified Business Income Deduction.

____ Deductibility of your home office for business use can change when forming an S Corporation.

____ There could be impacts for the Net Investment Income Tax (Form 8960) and/or the Additional Tax on Medicare (Form 8959).

____ Taxes for your S Corporation may differ to Schedule C filers based on federal and state tax laws.

____ The S Corporation will need to file a Form 1120S before 3/15 (9/15 if extended) along with their 1040 return (4/15 or 10/15 if extended).

____ Payroll taxes will be required for you and any other employees.

____ You'll have state-specific requirements for your entity such as filing annual reports or having a registered agent.

Tax savings and the additional points above are only some of many considerations. You may want to consult with an attorney to evaluate all relevant considerations. Our services and advice are not a substitute for an attorney and should not be construed as legal advice or legal services.

THIS IS A LEGAL NOTICE THAT STARTS NEVADA'S EVICTION PROCESS.
YOU COULD BE LOCKED OUT WITHOUT A COURT HEARING IF YOU DO NOTHING!

You have 7 days after NOV 0 7 2025 (Date of Service) to take action (not counting weekends and certain holidays).

Your landlord claims that you owe rent for the period of (months' rent is owed for) 11/01/2025 to 11/30/2025. You have 7 business days (not counting weekends and holidays) to take action. If you do not take action by your deadline to act, the court can order your eviction without a hearing at your landlord's request.

If the court orders an eviction, the constable or sheriff will post the eviction order on your door within 24 hours and will return 24 to 36 hours later to lock you out. The eviction order and lockout can happen quickly without any more notice from your landlord.

There are 3 ways you can avoid being evicted and locked out:

1. You can submit an Answer to the court. If you submit an Answer form to the court clerk by your deadline to act, the court will schedule a hearing when your landlord asks for an eviction. At the hearing, you can tell the judge why you disagree with this notice.

   Submitting an Answer protects you from automatic eviction. You can fill out and submit the Answer form in person at the Las Vegas Justice Court, 200 Lewis Avenue, Las Vegas, NV 89155. You can also submit the Answer online at https://nevada.tylerhost.net/SRL/srl/ or by scanning this QR code (choose "SUMMARY EVICTION: Tenant's Answer"):

2. You can pay the Total Amount of Rent Owed. If you pay your landlord the Total Amount of Rent Owed by your deadline to act, your landlord has no legal basis to evict you for that rent. Your landlord claims that the Total Amount of Rent Owed is:

   TOTAL AMOUNT OF RENT OWED (current and past rent plus late fees): $ 963.90

3. You can move out of the property. If you move out of the property by your deadline to act, your landlord has no legal basis to evict you.

Rental assistance is available at https://chap.clarkcountynv.gov.

If your landlord (not the constable or sheriff) tries to lock you out of the property or block your entry or cut off an essential service or item required by your lease or Nevada law, you can submit a request to the court and ask the court for help.

EXHIBIT 13

Settlement Agreement filed and served by Appellant prior to January 6, 2026 trial hearing

Oct/10/ 2025

Self Defendant:
Vanessa Crevling
500 Jefferson ave, apt 4,
89106, Las Vegas, NV

Eight judicial court
601 N Pecos Rd
89101 Las vegas NV

Case no: D-25-706749-D
Department: O
Judge: Regina McConnell

Plaintiff:

Christopher Crevling

Vs;

Defendant:

Vanessa Crevling

Letter: Counter offer to Settlement

I received both settlement offers via email from Plaintiff's attorney and here is my written formal counter offer to this:

Hereby, I, Vanessa Crevling, respectfully decline both settlement offers previously made to me. Both offers are unacceptable and not supported by sufficient documentation or explanation.

No receipts, bank statements, or other financial records have been provided to prove that any purchases or credits were made in my name or for my benefit. I never had access to any credit cards or bank account cards belonging to Mr. Crevling, nor did I ever sign any credit agreements jointly with him. I did not possess copies of any such cards, and I did not authorize or sign for any loans or credit accounts.

Mr. Crevling and I do not share any joint credit card debt or other joint credit obligations.

Regarding the alleged relocation expense of $13,344.62, I dispute this amount. Our relocation to Las Vegas did not cost that amount, as we personally rented a moving truck and completed the move ourselves. I was never informed that any credit or loan in the amount of $13,344.62 was taken out for this purpose. The reason for our relocation was that Mr. Crevling connected with "Sunny," who offered me a position as a pole fitness instructor, providing me with an employment opportunity.

Regarding the IRS back taxes for 2020, I maintain that I should not be held financially responsible for them. These back taxes were not caused by me.

To clarify the timeline:

In October 2019, I moved with my husband back to the United States.

From October 2019 to May 2020, we resided with Plaintiff's parents.

In May 2020, I became pregnant and did not work during that time.

All of my taxes were properly filed and recorded with the German tax authorities before I left Germany in 2019. The 2020 IRS back taxes are connected to my husband's former business, and the Social Security number listed on the IRS form does not match mine. Therefore, I cannot and will not assume responsibility for that debt.

It is also suspicious to me that the amount of the alleged 2020 back taxes is nearly identical to the amount of the so-called "personal loan." I have never been shown any contract, payment record, or evidence of funds being used for my benefit in connection with this alleged loan.

Lastly, I wish to note that I have always maintained a strong work ethic. It was my personal priority to obtain proper medical insurance coverage, as Mr. Crevling never provided medical insurance for either of us.

Defendant received housing assistance until 09/01/25 and is in a financial hardship due to her hourly wage of 15$. Defendant needs to save up money and better her career opportunities from her weekly paystubs to make sure to cover the rent and her bills when it's due. Defendants' expenses are attached to the financial disclosure form.

In the best interest of Robert, mom has medicaid, Foodstamps and also WIC installed. The current balance of snap benefits shrank down due to defendant's employment to 28,50$ monthly according to the welfare office.

The Ford Escape the plaintiff can keep plus the monthly costs for it. I don't own it and I am not allowed to use it or accepted the credit. I assume he's deducting the car from 670$ child support for the next 24 months or until modifications been filed. court has this ordered in the conference of july 24th 2025.

I demand 900$ alimony for the next 3 years and 6 months to Additionally secure mine and Bobby's existence.

For in the best interest of the child is it for his Mama to be around and gain stability here in this country as a permanent resident who just established her life after a mentally, physical and financial abuse. This would help the defendant putting money aside for reliable transportation, vacation, citizenship 5 years after the divorce is official or education towards a better career to get on her feet.

Hereby applies that both parties are responsible for their own co pay 30/30 rule

The Vacation Time may not be added to regular timeshare dates to extend a Parent's time beyond fourteen (14) days, without the written consent of the other Parent.
The Vacation Time cannot override the other Parent's Holiday Time.
Each Party is to give the other Party a fifteen (15) day notice of the Vacation Time, which must include the following:
Dates and location of the vacation;
Flight itinerary or designated travel plans/route information; and Hotel name, address, phone number, and room number, or the name, address, and phone number of the residence the Minor Children will be staying with.

International Documentary:
An international divorce document is needed, stating that the divorce is official with an apostille so Defendant can take care of the divorce on the German side of things and also remaining community Debt of Mr Crevlings residing time in germany.

- Restore my maiden name : Hammes

Consent to travel:

In the best Interest of the child and mentioned vacation times in the settlement offer, both parents agree on making a passport for Robert. So he can travel national and internationally. Robert has also not the chance yet to visit his grandparents in germany.

Spousal support counteroffer

Christopher will have a monthly spousal support obligation to Vanessa of 900$ per month for the next 3 years and 6 months. As long as the marriage lasted.

Assets:
An A/B List will be made by the parties for each of the personal property in the martial home.
The parties work amicably to collect their personal property and belongings from the martial home
The parties shall collaborate to determine the necessary furniture for Vanessa's residence

Christopher shall keep the following assets as his sole and separate property:

100% of the 2021 Ford Escape
100% of any other vehicles in Christopher's sole name
100% of his personal property and belongings
100% of any and all other personal property and belongings currently in his possession

Vanessa shall keep the following assets as her sole and separate property:

- 100% of her personal property and belongings in the Marital Home;
- 100% of any and all personal property and belongings currently in her possession.

This proposed solution is in the best interests of the child pursuant to NRS 125C.0035. The Defendant is actively working to further her education, maintain employment, and provide a safe, stable, and nurturing home for her son. She is also in the process of regaining stability in a country that, in certain respects, is still culturally and practically unfamiliar to her.

It is essential to Robert's well-being that he continues to have consistent and meaningful access to his mother. Limiting or reducing this relationship would be contrary to his emotional and developmental needs. Under the statutory factors, this solution supports:

The child's emotional ties with each parent (NRS 125C.0035(4)(a));

The ability of each parent to provide for the child's physical, developmental, and emotional needs (NRS 125C.0035(4)(b));

The importance of maintaining a relationship with both parents (NRS 125C.0035(4)(c));

The child's need for stability and continuity (NRS 125C.0035(4)(e)).

For these reasons, the Defendant respectfully asserts that this arrangement is in Robert's best interest and should be adopted by the Court.

Sincerely
Vanessa Crevling
Self- defendant

Upon receipt of a timely-forwarded proof of payment of an unreimbursed medical expense, the receiving party has thirty (30) days to reimburse the paying party one-half of the expense or to object to the expense. If the receiving party does not either object to the expense or reimburse the paying party for half of the expense, then that party is subject to sanctions for contempt of court.
